Working for the voluntary and community sectors

finditinsandwell recognises that the voluntary and community sectors are very important to Sandwell, not only by helping our residents but also in their spending power and ability to create work for the business community.

When you become a registered member of the finditinsandwell network (it's free!), you will open up new and exciting opportunities for you and your organisation.

Many private and public sector contracts are advertised on finditinsandwell.co.uk, giving you the chance to get involved in local projects. Through finditinsandwell you can also:

- promote your services on your own personalised page ('minisite') and get noticed by other organisations and potential suppliers
- receive email alerts when another organisation wants to get in touch with you, or when a relevant contracting opportunity becomes available
- get instant access to a supply directory of local products and services, and post up your purchasing needs so suppliers can get in touch
- attend free networking events to meet local business providers and find out about sponsorship or mutual support opportunities
- take advantage of free property-finding services and subsidised CRB checks for your organisation.

We aim to boost the Black Country economy by giving local businesses, social enterprises and the voluntary sector the support and contacts they need to pitch for and win bigger contracts. Join finditinsandwell today and meet people who are interested in supplying and buying services from you. Best of all, it's free!

Support & advice

You can get information on CRB checks, or support from Sandwell Council's business engagement team from our easily searchable business support pages. These are maintained by the business engagement officers themselves, so if the information, programme or training you are looking for exists, you will find it here!

Find an opportunity finditinsandwell takes the hassle out of searching for public-sector contracts, tenders and funding. All contracting and tender opportunities are emailed directly to you and advertised on finditinsandwell.

Request a quote

Is your organisation looking for new chairs, stationery, computer equipment, sports kits or personalised clothing? Perhaps you need volunteers or catering services - or even a bouncy castle for your next event! It's easy to 'request a quote' through finditinsandwell and wait for local suppliers to get in touch with cost-effective suggestions. You can even tailor your request so businesses who supply to the public and social sectors will see it.

Dashboard

Create your own space on finditinsandwell, customised with text, pictures and PDF files to showcase your organisation and tell the local community exactly what it is you do. You can also send instant messages to any other registered finditinsandwell members, making it easy to build strong links locally.

4th Events

Using the online finditinsandwell calendar, you can find events, conferences, workshops and seminars that will help you and members of your organisation to learn, develop, and forge new relationships and partnerships within the business community.
